BRINGING THE PLANET HOME.
NOTES ON THE FUTURE
OF DOMESTIC TOPOLOGY

Long forgotten by architectural theory, domestic space is the prism through which to rethink the future of the planet. It is by imagining new homes that we will be able to rethink a new politics, a new nature, a new idea of society.

VIVOLI, AFFORDABLE HOUSING MUMBAI

Vivoli is an 'environment of spaces', enclosed, semi-open and open. These spaces construct an opportunity for numerous activities at different times of the day in the house and in the community." It offers multifunctional spaces within the single unit where the user can create different living patterns based on different times of the day avoiding the stereotypical jail cell-like flats that people are forced to buy. Instead, it offers a place that fosters community living in apartments that behave like homes."

PERMANENCE AND TRANSIENCE - CONVERTING A WAREHOUSE INTO A COLLECTIVE RESIDENTIAL BUILDING

As a residential building, the former warehouse is actually entering its third life. It is prototypical not only because of the reuse of existing building structure, but also because of the communal programming.
